excitement among the fancy, relative to a fight that was to come off between the above named men, and it was thought by many that a good display of science would take place on the occasion, as both the men were brought up in the best school in Engaland, from whence they had recently arrived. It was not known until a late hour on Sunday evening the whereabouts it would come off, when word was given that the men were at the King's County Hotel, in Williamsburg, and that they would be action. Upon this being known, many immediately went over to Williamsburg, where they took up their quarters for the night, while numbers of others crossed the river in open boats between two and three o'clock in the morning. About four o'clock some fifty or a hundred persons had assembled on the outside of the King's County Hotel, and shortly after the doors were opened, when gin cock-tails, brandy slings, &c., became in great requisition. Ward made his appearance, and was received by his friends with great enthusiasm, looking in fine condition, and in evident good spirits, and quite sanguine of success. He was shortly afterwards followed into the room by young Grib, who, to appearance, was not behind his opponent in health or spirits. Both the men, according to their looks, size, weight, and make, appeared to be a very good match, and the hopes were high that it would be an out and out affair.

The word was then given for Newtown Bridge, and the stakeholder led the way at a pretty quick pace, followed by about a hundred persons. They kept at it through fields and ditches, over hedges and stone walls, for upwards of an hour and a hall, but could not find the desired spot or the combatants. The word was then passed that they were on the wrong secant, and immediately the whole party proceeded to retrace their steps with impresations both loud and deep. Upon nearing the Cedar Wood, about half a mile from Peck Slip Ferry, their ears were assailed by loud shouts, and upon going into a field just at the back of the wood, the astonishment was great to find the combatants had just finished the contest in the presence of some tairty individuals.

Thus ended one of the most disgraceful affairs on the kind that ever took place in this or any other country, and which, for the credit of the P. R. country, and which, for the credit of the P. R., and the community generally, it is to hoped will aever take place again. If these affairs cannot be yot up with some degree of decency and fairness, they had far better be left alone—for certain it is, that no respectable person will be seen at them, or be connected with them in any shape, and the manly art of self-defence will sink into obscurity, leaving the field open to the cowardly bowie knife and the dirk. Among those present on the occasion, were observed some of the M. P.'s of this city; also, the officers of the Sheriff of King's county—some said the Sherifi himself—the latter aiding the contusion, by calling out most lustily on those present to keep the peace, but did not further interfere. But they made themselves more busy afterwards, by threatening to arrest persons who were not present at the fight at all, and went so far as to talk of stopping the boat in which most of those who went over to see the affair, but did not do so, were returning,—but none of them had the spirit to "bell the *at."

Mr. Hassaouex seconded the motion. The company imposed on the public by pretending to have a capital which they had no pretension to.

The Rocores opposed the motion. Many merchants of the city were similarly circumstanced—they had a character that might be valued at one hundred thousand dollars, while they perhaps had not a cash capital to the amount of $20,000.

March 24.—School Law—The Bible.—This Board met last evening, when the committee on laws reported in isvor of making some amendments thereto.

Mr. Allen proposed a substitute for the report, embracing amendments which he considered would have a salatar, effect upon the public schools, and moved them as a substitute for the resolutions proposed at the isst meeting.

Mr. Skinmone seconded the motion. It was incumbent on them to resort to this measure, as it was an important step for the benefit of the rising generation.

Mr. Nicoll replied on the part of the committee, and was followed by

Mr. Rich, who took occasion to insinuste that it was in contemplation to exclude the Bible from the cimmon schools after the election.

Mr. Allen replied in support of his metion to substitute the amendments offered by him, for those contained in the report of the committee. The object of Mr. A.'s amendments was to get rid of the trustees of the public schools, and also the inspectors, and place the power they now possess in the hands of the commissioners.

It was moved to lay the amendments offered by Mr. Allen on the table. Carriel—ayes 15, nose 11.

or, and a person, who was pointed out to me as his seent, was actively engaged on the floor of the douse yesterday, in opposition to the bill. Last session a bill passed the House, authorizing the connection of the slip and basin with the canal at Dassville, but it was lost in the Senate. What connection Senator Faulkaer had with its defeat, I am not certain, but I believe that the bill reached the Senate so late in the session, that an objection caised against its being read twice on the tame day, by Senator F., proved fatal to the bill, and it used. The Dansville folks, incensed at these proceedings, wrongfully took the law into their own ands, broke down the bank of the canal, let the water into the slip and basin, and were guilty of other unjustifiable acts. Amongst the parties prominent in this transaction were, I believe, the spicanus for the act of the Legislsture. They were indicted by the State authorities, and those indictinents are still pending. The applicants for the present law are residents of Dansville, but they are not the persons applying last year. The opponents of the Dansville people in the ourage upon the State works. This, it appears to me, might have some force, were the landabtants of Dansville alone interested in the construction of this small section of the canal. Besides this, let the law take its course and punish its violaiers; that is a question, it appears to me, that legislation has nothing to do with, and a deleat of the application of the Dansville people are not alone interested in the construction of the spitcation of country situated on the Canaseraga creek, one of the most fertile sections of the State, trading at Dansville, the largest unincorporated village in Western New York, is interested and ask for its construction. I fear it is doomed to be made a party toot-ball, and the interests of the State lost sight of.

Home yesterday, with a recommendation that provisions lat and 2d be rejected. The bill goes on the general orders.

Mr Monatson reported a bill regulating fare on the State railways. It puts the rate of fare on the main lines at three cents per mile. He said that the stockholders of some of the companies wished to put it as low as 2d cents; the committee however thought proper to limit the rate to three cents, icaving it to the House to extend or reduce it, or make the rate applicable to other roads.

The License bill which passed the House was recommitted in the Senate yesterday, on motion of Senator Jones, with instructions to strike New York from the bill.
